CAVALRY CUP

The trophy now known as the Cavalry Cup was donated in 1910 by the U.S. Marine Corps Team of that year, to be presented to the High Cavalryman in the President's Match. When first presented in 1911 to Captain H. LaT. Cavanaugh of the U.S. Cavalry, it was indeed called the Cavalry Cup, but for some reason was renamed the Marine Corps Cup in the following year, 1912, when it was presented to Captain Morton C. Mumma, U.S. Cavalry. As the Appreciation Cup (see listing elsewhere) was called variously the Marine Cup and the Cavalry Cup, and the Marine Corps Cup (donated in 1909) also existed for a separately fired match, confusion must have reigned until 1918 when the Cavalry Cup regained its original name, which it retains to this day.

Match Conditions:

1911 Awarded to the high-scoring Cavalryman competitor in the President's Match fired during the National Matches.
1951 Conditions of presentation changed to the high-scoring Army competitor in the President's Match.
1978 Conditions changed as follows: Individual fired match as a part of the National High Power Rifle Championship, two sighting shots and 20 shots for record at 300 yards, rapid fire prone from standing, with either the Service Rifle or the NRA Match Rifle.
